ending." scheme, which I have heard with my own ears, practicable or not! The position hitherto assumed by our Government would seem to preclude such an idea. If then I mention it, it is more to give you the opportunity of locking into one of the phase of the Rexican question in Paris than with the expectation to see such a project in Paris than with the expectation to be stated in over realized.

THE TERRITORIAL CONVERSION TO FRANCE.
It is stated in political circles that on the 15th of August, the day of Louis Napoleon's fire, the Emporor gave a prise sudience to the Emhassador of Prussin, who is said to have communicated to His Majesty the answer of the Dabinet of Berlin to the imperial note concerning the rectification of French frontiers. The Prussian Government deciares that for the present such a rectification is impossible.

In admitting this news to be true—a thing which I have be means of ascertaining, for neither Louis Napoleon nor the Prinsian Embassador have done me the favor of taking me into their confidence—I will notice that the interview is represented as having been strictly private, which makes it difficult to know in which way such a piece of news can have leaked out. But according to this very innews can have leaked out. But according to this very intelligence, and accepting it as genuine, it is by no means demonstrated that Prussia nad declined the demand of France. The Prussian Embassador, you will observe, says the rectification is impossible for the present only, which means, evidently, that Prussia's determination may change hereafter.

It is also asserted, on the other hand, that France has not addressed to Prussia any formal demand for the rectification of her frontiers. France has only stated that her good relations with Prussia would be considerably attempthened by such a rectification. Prussia is not opposed to the wishes of France. The note Count of Goltz, the Prussian Embassador, has handed to the Tuileries, state only that there is great spitation on this subject in Germany. Everything is in such a state of disorranisation that, not withstanding his desire to be just, Prussia could not for the present think of a territorial concesisstion that, notwithstanding his desire to be just, Prusia could not for the present think of a territorial concession. But the Cabinet of Beries has fully acknowledged the right of France. It will yield Sarriouir, and will proceed to a rectification of frontiers as soon as circumstances are favorable for the solution of this question.

Thus you will see that all the noise made by the English papers about the demand of France and the refusal of Prussia were in reality without foundation, and that the peace of Europe, which was represented as being on the eve of heing broken on that account, runs no risk of being disturbed.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS-SPECIAL TERM-SEPT. 3 UDGE CARDOZO'S PRONUNCIAMENTO. orning Judge Cardozo en taking his seat

This morning Judge Cardozo on taking his sent made the following little speech:

"I find that during my absence from the city some unserapsions persons have been industriously engaged in circulating false ramors to the effect that injunctions had been granted by me against the Board of Health to prevent interference with "bone and fat" boiling establishments. I think it right to say that all such sistements are wholly untrue. I heaver granted any injunction in behalf of such an establishment or for its protection or which could have any such effect. I bessed but one injunction agrainst the Board of Health and that was for ne such purpose, and for a month-and during the period that these false accusations were being made—the Board tacitly acquisaced in its propriety by not even moving to dissolve it. OBITUARY.

TR. BENEVIN SEEDET. Mr. Edmund Blunt died in Brooklyn on Sunday, September 3, aged 67 years. Mr. Biant had been constantly engaged in hydrographic pursuits from the year 1816 to the time of his death, and probably few men in the country have been more activaly instrumental in completing national and beal curveys than he. In 1816, he made the first accurate survey of New York Harbor, since the time of the Revolution. In 1800, he made the first survey of the Bahama Banks, then he great highway of vessels to the Gulf of Mexico. In 1890, he made the first survey ever made of the Georgia and Nan-backs shoule. From 1801 to 1850, he was engaged in surveys of New York Harbor, Long Island Sound, and adjacent waters. In 1804, he will timed Assistant Sourveys of the United States. Pearl Survey, under Mr. F. R. Hayely, a position which hydroge to the time of his death. In 1857 and 180c, he was the respect and advocate of the introduction of Frenci's System of signal lights, which has contributed so largely to render our Light-House system the best in the world.

Bulls Head, Monday, Sept. 3.-There were 3,179 beeves on sale at the National Yards to-day. This, taken by tself, is not a large number, but taken with the 3,100 head sold at the Hudson City yards, and 650 sold chewhere, and the total of 6,929 makes a heavy run for the week, and this after local of 0.000 mass a hard seek. It is, therefore, not surprising that prices began to fall off, over the river Friday, when cattle were sold jo. lower than the previous Monday, surprising that prices began to fall off, over the river Friday, when cattle were sold ic. lower than the previous Monday, and that they still continue downward. The top cattle were very fine to-day, and the first-class buyers always pick them up carly in the morning. Some of the salesmen thought they go pearly last week's prices for their first sales of best cattle, but these were generally in the lower. Still it is very certain that considerable numbers were sold at 18c. There was a good show of very fice cattle. In general, fat cattle brought 17% 174c, and fair steers 16x 16te. Before night, all grades, had fallen off ie. from the morning prices, and it was very evident that rough lots could not be sold at cost, or even at all. There were several droves of these and very mean oven, stags, o'd cows and buils, which were sold at 11x 13c. with one lot of two-year old Stats buils at 53 each, or about 4c. $\psi$ in gross weight. Some Canada cattle were on sale, but as tay found no purchasers at paying prices, it is questionable whether more will come forward, as 20 per cent gold duty has to be paid on them. A lot of buils, which have been here for a week with no buyer, bid fair to hold over a week longer. The weather has been bot for two days, which operates against trade, which was extremely dull in the afternoon, and owners footed up losses rather than gains.

There was a smash-up on the Harlem road Saturday night about 11 o'clock, the engine of the stock train running over a cow near Aments. A brakeman was instantly killed, and some 20 head of cattle were cither killed outright or so badly injured that they died. Others were more or less highred, but the agest of the road, Mr. J. B. Dutcher, who is also one of the proprietors of the sales, yards, promptly settled with the drovers, in most cases taking the cattle at a fair valuation and having them and on account of the radro, which was get, erally entirely satisfactory to the owners.

BOAT RACE ON THE HUDSON.

POURINEERER, MOMAY, Sept. 2, 1866.

A very exciting race came off opposite this place on the Hudson at 6 clock hast Saturday evening under the ampiers of the Eagle Aquatic Association. Five working heats were entered. The centestants were George Graham. William Brink, John J. Platt, Augustus Gidley and Q. W. Davids. The distance rowed was one mile and return. The judges were the Hon. John H. Otis, Henry W. Shaw and the Rev. J. L. Cording.

No betting whatever was allowed, and none but friends of the Association were lavited toattened. Brink, came in first, Graham next. Davids third, and Gidley last, Platt having withdrawn after going about 100 yards. A price was presented to each of the turce coming in first. A select company of latins and gentlemen were present, including Judge Dean and family.

THE TRIBUNE some two or three months ago contained a hurried biographical sketch of a citizen of the State of New-York who has become known, and whose name has become almost a household word, by reason of having devoted a large portion of his great wealth to the cause of Free Popular Education. The same untiring energy, and the same unselfish ambition which gave Ezra Cornell his fortune, are now being devoted to the establishment and development of what may become within the lifetime of our younger readers the greatest University in the world. younger readers the greatest University in the world. For the purpose of giving our readers a full understanding of the inception and progress of this magnificent enterprise, we propose to begin with the first great step, the Congressional Land Grant, and follow it down to the present time.

In July, 1862, Congress made an appropriation of public lands to the several States, for the encouragement of Agricultural and Mechanical Education.

Thirty thousand acres for each of her thirty-three members of Congress gave New-York 990,000 acres of land, which was required to be sold and the proceeds to be invested as a permanent fund, the income of which shall be devoted to the maintenance of an Instiwhich shall be devoted to the maintenance of an insti-tution in which the teaching of the AGRICULTURAL and MECHANIC ARTS shall be a prominent feature. The Legislature of 1863 designated the Proper's College, at Havana, as the Institution to which the COLLEGE, at Havana, as the Institution to which the avails of the Land Grant Income should be devoted, upon certain conditions and requirements designed to insure results commensurate with the splendor of the gift. Those conditions were not performed, as had been anticipated, and no satisfactory guaranty of their fulfillment in the future could be obtained. The Regents of the University made an investigation, and gents of the University made an investigation, and reported to the Legislature to this effect.

In the Autumn of 1864, Ezra Cornell proposed to the Trustees of the New-York State Agricultural College, located at Ovid, Seneca County, then closed in consequence of financial embarrassment, that if they would dispose of their Ovid property to the best advantage, procure an appropriation of the Land Grant Fund, and locate their Institution at Ithaca, he would endow it with a fund of $300,000. For the consideration of this proposition a meeting was called he would endow it with a fund of $300,000. For the consideration of this proposition a meeting was called at Albany during the Legislative session of 1865, consisting of the Trustees of the State Agricultural College, and leading friends of Agricultural and Mechanical Education from different sections of the State. At this meeting Mr. Cornell voluntarily increased his offer from $300,000 to $500,000, and it was decided that, instead of trying to galvanize the old Agricultural College, a new Institution should be established, and that it should bear the name of the generous founder. Accordingly a committee was apgenerous founder. Accordingly a committee was ap-pointed to prepare a bill for the action of the Legislature, which became a law after a severe struggle, and to which the following amendment was added by the Legislature:

"Previded further. That no such payment shall be made, unless within six months from the passage of this not, said Exra Cornell of Ithaca shall pay over to the Trustees of Genesee College, located at Linus, in this State, the suss of Theories Theories of the purpose of establishing in said College a professorship of Agricultural Chemistry.

Magnanimous Legislature ! EZRA CORNELL might give to the State half a million dollars to found a Um versity, to the support of which the income of the Land Grand Fund might be devoted, "Provided fur-ther," that he would pay $25,000 for the privilege of doing it, and he must do it within six months too. There are persons who pretend to say that this was the most disgraceful act which the New-York Legislature ever committed—and when that is said we can-not conceive what more is needed. Some of his best friends advised Mr. Cornell to reject these magnanifriends advised Mr. Cornell to reject these magnetic mous conditions and use his means for other purposes. But no; EZRA CORNELL never goes backward. He had conceived the idea of founding an Institution which should in a little time take its place at the head which should in a little time take its place at the head of the educational interests of the Empire State, and he hopes to live to see it become the great University of America. He paid Genesee College $25,000 "within six months," and then he was permitted to put half a million into the hauds of the Trustees of the Cornell University. The Trustees, believing they were to commence a "job" which should last through the present generation and many others to come, determined unanimously to keep Mr. Cornell's half million whole, and use its annual income, $35,000, determined unanimously to keep Mr. Cornell's half million whoic, and use its annual income, $35,000, for the purposes of building, believing that 20 years' income would give them more and better buildings than could be procured by the use of the principal. The Trustees have apparently discovered the very happy idea—which certainly ought to be patented—of spending their money and having it left.

The Trustees have contracted for the erection of the first dormitory building, to be completed by the lat day of July next, which is now being erected on the farm of 200 acres adjoining the village of Ithaca, which Senator Cornell has presented to the Institution in addition to his endowment. The building is to be of stone, four stories beside the basement, 56 by 165 feet in size, and is to cost $58,425. The whole plans embrace a dozen or more noble buildings, of which this is the first, and it is expected that a new building will be added every year until the wants of the Institution are satisfied.

The site is of surpassing beauty. A plateau over 300 feet above the level of Cayuga Lake, bordered on one side by the Cascadilla, and on the other by Fall Creek, gives a noble place for the buildings and ornamental grounds. Back of these is the great College Farm, and on either side are ravines, rocks, and falls mental grounds. Back of these is the great College Farm, and ou either side are ravines, rocks, and falls of water, combining not less beautifully than those at Trenton.

In front, stretching far to the right as eye can reach, are the beautiful waters of Lake Cayuga—directly in front is the tidy and thriving village of Ithaca, its spires and towers rising amid masses of foliage—and to the left sweeps a bold range of hills, diversified by groves and oultivated fields, and dotted with farm-houses, closing in the whole scene, as with the walls of an amphitheater. It is a seat worthy the ideal which it is believed Mr. Cornell's munificence will make real.

The low price which the land scrip commands in the market, in consequence of the immense quantity offered by the several States, together with the operation of the Homestead Law, has induced Mr. Cornell to undertake the location of these public lands for the benefit of the University. He has already located in Wisconsin and Minnesota 200,000 acres, and expects to continue the location of the balance as fast as it can be done judiciously. He is obliged to purchase the scrip of the State, and in addition give collateral security that the avails and profit of the enterprise shall be paid over to the Institution. This operation promises the most brilliant results, some of the land, located within the present year, being already sought for at $5 per acre, and the agents in charge advise against selling as yet. Senator Cornell confidently predicts that in less than twenty years the Cornell University will be possessed of an endowment of at least $3,000,000, and he hopes that it may reach $5,000,000. And all to be devoted to the education of the sons of the farmers and mechanics of the State of New-York! When we reflect what has been the growth of Yale College, from its almost insignificant beginning to its present greatness, we are lost in the contemplation of what may result from so grand and promising an undertaking as the Cornell Univgrature.

Government stocks of all issues are lower, with less busness. The old 5-20s fell to 1124 and new to 1094, with 10-40s offered at 99. The 7.30s sold at 107 @ 1074 for first and 106] #106] for the second and third issues. The recent advance has attracted a large amount of securities here for sale, and the market is very firm under the circumstances. In State bonds and railway mortgages a small business. Bank shares are firm. The coal stocks are lower and weak. The railway share market is dull and lower, and, at the reduced quotations, buyers do not appear in force. Money is offered by speculators in great profusion, but the absence of investment values in share property is so apparent that there are no operators hold enough to buy them at anything like quotations. After the call prices were no better, and business was moderate.

At the Second Board the market was exceedingly duil, and after the call there was nothing done, with the exception of Eric, which, on the improved quotations in London, sold in small lots at 73]. The market closed dull and heavy at quotations: New-York Central, 102 @ 1023; Erie, 722 @724; Hudson River, 118@119; Reading, 1124@ 1124; Michigan Central, 1104@111; Michigan Southern, 834 x834; Illinois Central, 1234 x 1234; Cleveland and Pittsburgh, 86 x864; Cleveland and Toledo, 115; Rock Island, 109@1094; North-Western, 354@354; North-Western Preferred, 664@664; Fort Wayne, 1034@1034; Ohio and Mississippi Certificates, 29 w294; Canton, 524 w 53; Cumberland Coal, 464 w 47; Quicksilver, 494 w 50.

Money is abundant at 5 P cent to houses in fair credit, with exceptions at 4 & cent. In commercial paper no change. Prime names pass at 5 F cent, and good at 54 26 W cent. The Bank Statement reflects the payments on account of the temporary loans. The legal tender shows an increase with an increase in deposits. The loan item shows no material change.
